THE GLENDALE NEWS

DEVOTED TO THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE SAN FERNANDO VALLEY

VOL. VII. GLENDALE (LOS ANGELES POSTOFFICE), LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1911 No. 12

CITY TRUSTEES

All members present.

Regular order of business dispensed with and city engineer reported that street work on First and Second streets was as good as can be expected for that class of work. Demands were referred to finance committee.

Ordinance and judiciary committee recommended that action on question of additional precincts in the city be deferred.

Police and sanitary committee recommended that Mr. Hall if he collect garbage, be allowed to select his own ground of disposing of same. Attorney instructed to prepare ordinance regulating disposal of garbage and imposing a license tax on garbage collectors

Trustee White reported having conferred with Architect Warn in regard to his plans for proposed city hall. The board reconsidered its action in regard to plans by Mr. Warn. It was decided that all plans be rejected and the clerk was instructed to readvertise for plans in Glendale papers. The price of building must be within $7500.

Trustee White reported that William E. Wright's option on Lot 21, Block 10, town of Glendale, had expired.

A warrant for $3095 was ordered drawn on the city hall and library site bond fund and the president of the board in conjunction with city attorney authorized to tender Mr Wright said sum in gold coin in payment for the lot. Trustee Watson offered the following resolution: "Whereas it appears to the board of trustees of the city of Glendale that it is necessary to obtain title to certain lot in said city described as follows: Lot 21, Block 10, town of Glendale, for the purpose of erecting there on a city hall, the same being necessary for public use; and whereas the board after much effort has been unable to purchase said lot by private sale at a price which the board considers reasonable; now, therefore, be it resolved that it is necessary to procure the title to said lot, and the city attorney is duly instructed to immediately proceed to and institute such action to condemn said land as is necessary and provided for under the laws of this state."

On motion, "Resolved, That G. B Hoffman, city treasurer of the city of Glendale, be and he is hereby authorized to withdraw funds of the city of Glendale from the Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles, Cal., upon checks signed in the following manner: G. B. Hoffman, treasurer of the city of Glendale or city of Glendale; G. B. Hoffman, treasurer, or the regular warrant of City of Glendale signed by the president of board and counter signed by clerk," was duly seconded and passed.

Warrant in the sum of $3499 was ordered drawn on the city hall and library site bond fund in payment for lots 19, 20, 21, block 59, town of Glendale. Warrant in the sum of $3581.50 was ordered drawn on the city hall and library site bond fund in payment for lot 19, block 10, town of Glendale.

Street superintendent reported that but little of the assessment for opening and widening Sixth street remained unpaid, and that the unpaid portion is now delinquent.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for a voltage regulator for use of electric light department.

A communication from the Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir company to the health officer in regard to cleaning the company's reservoir.

A communication from Cyril Wilde requesting the board to permit him to establish a bowling alley in the city of Glendale. Request granted according to terms of same.

On motion permit No. 52 to do street work by private contract on Rock Glen avenue was granted.

Street superintendent was instructed to notify the public that no more street work under present specifications may be done, city engineer to prepare new specifications for the consideration of the board.

On motion salary of night watchman increased twenty-five dollars per month by unanimous vote.

ASSESSMENT AND TAXES.

City Assessor Hoffman reports that the assessed value of Glendale this year will be approximately two million dollars. The tax rate will probably remain at the same figure as last year, $1.13. Last year's assessment roll footed up about a million and a half.

INVESTMENT

THE WATER QUESTION

Our Supply—Who Owns It?—Various Companies and Their Distributing Systems—Other Information of Interest in Relation to this Live Subject

The NEWS has heretofore devoted considerable space to an explanation of water conditions in Glendale and vicinity, but the subject continues to be agitated more or less in a manner showing the need of a repetition of former statements with the addition of others helping to a clearer understanding of the matter.

THE DECREE OF PARTITION.

By decree of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county given in 1871, the water of the Rancho San Rafael, which stretched from Garvanza to Rancho Providencia (Burbank) and from the crest of the Verdugo mountains to the Los Angeles river, was partitioned to the several owners of the land. At that time irrigation was practiced here by open ditches only, pressure pipes were practically unknown, and therefore water was not allotted to any hill land; to practically level land only was distribution made. The distribution made by the court was an ingenious one and was yet eminently fair. The water of Verdugo Canon arising in a certain "enclosed field" just north of the old Verdugo ranch house, and comprising practically all the water in the canon west of the road, was divided arbitrarily into ten thousand parts and to every subdivision of land was given a certain number of "ten thousandths." For instance, there was the Childs Tract consisting of 371 acres, extending along the east side of Glendale avenue from Oak street to Ninth and eastward to a line north and south drawn just west of the Fourth street school lot, now known as the Childs Tract line. To this tract was awarded 1197 ten thousandths, a fraction over three [illegible]

Formation of Distributing Companies.

When in 1883, M. L. Wicks, E. T Wright, M. H. Hodgkins and Charles Watts formed a combination and bought the Dreyfus property and other acreage, and when a little later the Childs tract was placed on the market the first work of systematically caring for and distributing the water by means of reservoirs and pipes began At a point just below Verdugo Park in the canon a small concrete dam was constructed and concrete pipe laid to carry the water to the various reservoirs which were soon after built. A large number of settlers came into the valley in the latter part of 1883 and during 1884 and in the latter year the Verdugo Canon Water Co was organized. The number of shares in the company was fixed at ten thousand with a par value of one dollar, as it remains until the present time. The idea in the mind of the incorporators was to limit ownership to one share for every ten thousandth part of the water and this was adhered to for many years by common consent, but in recent years much of the stock has changed ownership regardless of whether the purchaser owned land to which it was appurtenant or not. Following the organization of this company, the stock of which never represented anything more than ownership in pipe lines and development works, various reservoir companies were formed owning only the reservoirs and pipe lines leading from them to the lands of the stockholders. These companies were as follows: The Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir Co. on Verdugo road; the Tropico Reservoir Co. on Ninth street; the Childs Tract (Independent) Reservoir Co., the Verdugo Springs Reservoir Co. (the two latter on Glendale avenue near Oak street) and the North Glendale Reservoir Co. These reservoirs are still serving the purpose for which they were constructed, supplying the territory under them with water for domestic use and irrigation. The Verdugo company, the North Glendale company and the Verdugo Springs company, are still independent organizations, but the Tropico and the Independent companies have passed into the control of the "Consolidated" Water Company of which Mr. Hugh Glassell is the principal owner.

The West Glendale owners who are not supplied by the Consolidated company also have a local organization, but has no reservoir, taking water direct from the pipes of the Verdugo Canon Co.

Litigation.

While the Verdugo Ranch was still in the possession of the original owner, until his death five or six years ago, there was more or less friction between the Verdugos and the water owners in the valley below. For several years the ranch was leased to Chinese vegetable growers whose demands for water were insatiate and their work and habitations were a constant cause for complaint on the part of water users, the condition of the water at times certainly verging upon the "unsanitary." To supply their tenants with sufficient water the owners of the ranch were constantly interfering by ditching and otherwise with the water supply and this led to an appeal being made to the courts more than once, the decisions invariably being in favor of the valley owners. Owners of land above and around the "enclosed field" within which is the source of the water supply, also sank wells to develop the water for their use and this led to further litigation in which the owners represented by the Verdugo Canon company were generally successful, although in the case of Judge E. M. Ross, the decision was in the nature of a compromise, he being allowed to pump water under certain restrictions. The water rights in the canon were not involved in the suit brought by the city of Los Angeles against certain users of water along the Los Angeles river, but it is claimed that the city of Los Angeles [illegible] in those cases is given the right to demand the application of the same ruling to this water supply. But that decision gave no right to Los Angeles to deprive any community of water for domestic use, so that the possibility of this water right ever being interfered with under the terms of the decision referred to, is remote.

Development and Supply.

Roughly speaking the supply of water entering into the main pipe of the Verdugo Canon system is about two hundred inches, but it has fallen occasionally to about one hundred and twenty-five. The generally accepted theory was that there was an underground stream passing down between the narrow walls of the canon and that this stream could be intercepted and forced to flow to the surface by a dam of concrete put down to bedrock. This work was attempted by the company some twenty years ago; work was begun on the west side of the canon and pushed out toward the center until the bed rock disappeared, the depth to it becoming too great for practical work along the lines originally intended. But the uncompleted work developed something like twenty inches of water. Shortly afterwards a tunnel was run eastward towards the county road until the work was stopped by Judge Ross under whose land the tunnel was made. This also developed a small supply. Three of the reservoir companies have sunk wells and added to the supply by a considerable number of inches. The Tropico company has the best of these wells which it is claimed is capable of supplying as much as 70 inches of water. The Independent company's well is capable of furnishing 30 inches. The well of the Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir Co. is only pumped occasionally and is good for about 12 or 15 inches. Since the Verdugo ranch came into the hands of its present owners there has been no interference with the water supply and one or more ditches made by the Verdugos have been opened and the supply of the Canon company considerably increased. The supply for the present season measures approximately 200 inches.

Distribution.

The following figures may bear some slight corrections but will be found approximately correct. The principal corrections required are for stock and water rights sold which are not yet a matter of record. In the Tropico Reservoir Co. particularly it is possible that a considerable portion of the record owners, probably one-half, have transferred their interests to the Consolidated Water Company.

Glassell Pipe Line—(Consolidated) 607 shares (or ten thousandths) two owners; supplies from Doran street south to Fourth between Remington and Central avenue, and south of Fourth street supplies everything between San Fernando road and Central avenue to Tropico, excepting a strip on the south side of Fourth street supplied by the West Glendale Pipe line. This pipe line is supplied by the "Independent" Company's reservoir on Glendale avenue, into which is put the Verdugo Canon water and pumped water also.

West Glendale Pipe Line — 390 shares, thirty-six owners. Supplies territory west of Remington north of Fourth street and on the south of Fourth street west of Central. No reservoir or well.

Verdugo Springs Water Co.—666 shares, four owners. Supplies from Second to Fifth street, first alley west of Adams street to Glendale avenue. West side of Glendale avenue to Central avenue, except lands adjacent to Brand boulevard, First to Sixth street; also Fourth to First on Central avenue; also two blocks bounded by Orange and Central north of First; also north of First street three lines of a thousand feet each, covering east side of Louise street, both sides of Kenwood and Jackson, one side of Isabel; also runs west on Central south side of First street to Remington, south on Remington to property on north side of Third street; runs north to Arden on Remington supplying territory west of Remington for 900 feet. This company has about 375 consumers.

North Glendale—2128 shares, seventy-three owners. Supplies all the foothill section of Casa Verdugo and North Glendale, has its own reservoir, distributes as far west as the Dr. Black place.

Tropico—(Consolidated), 1721 shares, 94 owners appear on V. C. W. Co. books, but as mentioned above there are many less. Supplies practically all of Tropico and the south side of Ninth street. Has large reservoir and pump on Ninth street.

Independent — (Consolidated), 763 shares, forty owners (subject to same correction as above). Supplies practically the original Childs tract, between Glendale avenue and a line drawn north and south immediately west of the Fourth street school, and from Oak street to Ninth street.

Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir Co.—1408 shares, 128 owners. Supplies from the (former) Benson place on East Sixth street westward to the Childs Tract line, from First street south to Glendale city limits. Has reservoir on Verdugo road above First street and a pumping plant on [illegible]

The above makes a total of seven thousand and six hundred-eighty-three ten thousandths, which added to 2027 ten thousandths belonging to the Thom and Ross ranches, and 130 shares held in the Canon company by Capt. Thom, accounts for nearly the ten thousand parts. There has as a matter of fact been a small over issue of stock owing to a duplication of issues or transfers occurring about the time the subdivisions of the various properties were made.

GLENDALE RESIDENT DIES.

On Friday of last week Israel H. Gregg, who has been a resident of this place since November, 1909, died at his residence on Maryland avenue. At the time of death Mr. Gregg was seventy-three years, four months and two days old. He was a member of the Free Will Baptist church.

Mr. Gregg was born in Warren, O., March 6, 1838, and was among the first to respond to President Lincoln's call for volunteers, he having enlisted at the age of 23 years. He served in the army for two years and ten months and was discharged from active service on account of a severe wound received in the battle of Chancellorsville. He served in Company H, Seventh Ohio regiment.

At the close of the war in 1865 Mr Gregg went to Michigan and lived there until November, 1909, when he and his family came to Glendale. He was a member for many years of C. J. Dickerson Post, G. A. R. No. 6, of Hillsdale, Mich. He was married in 1869 to Sarah E. Howe and to this union were born two children, Mrs Dora Hall and Ernest Gregg, both of whom, with the widow, survive him and are now residents of this city He is also survived by one brother and three sisters who reside in the East.

C. H. Bott has been busy the past few days making photos of some of Glendale's leading streets and business sections which wil lbe sent to the League of California municipalities. Lantern slides will be made from these pictures and will be sent to the international municipal congress which will be held in Chicago some time in the near future.

GLENDALE COUNTRY CLUB.

Maids and Matrons.

On Monday afternoon the ladies of the Maids and Matrons society and friends were entertained at the club rooms, the main event of the afternoon being military whist. Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., was hostess, assisted by Mrs. Thos. Ogg.

SURPRISE PARTY

Mr. R. A. Petersen and Mrs. Henry Johnson Have Birthdays Honored

Mr. R. A. Peterson was a greatly surprised man last Sunday evening when returning to his home on Adams street at eight o'clock with his wife who had lured him away for an automobile ride around town, he put his latch key in the door of his darkened and apparently vacant house, and had the door fly open in his face, while at the same instant the house became ablaze with light and there was disclosed a room full of friends who in one voice congratulated him on his 50th birthday. But he rose to the occasion manfully and during the rest of the evening with but little evidence of the shock he had received, played well the role of host. Sharing honors with Mrs. Petersen was Mrs. Henry Johnson whose birthday it also was, and who was equally surprised by the affair which was so cleverly arranged by Mrs. Petersen, Mr. Johnson and other conspirators. There was a guest present for everyone of Mr. Petersen's birthday anniversaries, and the evening passed delightfully in conversation and music.

The Hare sisters of Eagle Rock were present and their singing was heartily enjoyed as usual. Madame Manasko, the noted celloist was present and delighted the company with a number of selections which showed her wonderful control over the instrument of her choice. Miss Edith Cutler sang "Mavourneen" in a most charming manner. Mr. Robert Goetz of Denver, son of Mrs. C. H. Wuth played several violin selections in excellent style.

Assiting Mrs. Petersen were Mrs C. H. Wuth and Miss Carlotta Blaurock.

The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. W. McElroy, Harold McElroy, Miss Edith Cutler, Mrs. Mary Gridley, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hester, Mr and Mrs. R. Hinckley, Mr. and Mrs W. L. Truit, Mr. and Mrs. H. Johnston Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Furst, Clifford Furst, Miss Bessie Furst, Tom Furst, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Severance, Miss Ramie Severance, Mrs. C. H. Wuth, Robert Goetz, Miss Charlotte Blaurock, Mr. G. J. Fanning, Mr. and Mrs J. C. Sherer of Glendale; Mr. and Mrs C. W. Young of Castle Crags; Mr. and Mrs. W. Cowan, Mrs. Guy Hare, Miss Bessie Hare, Mr. and Mrs. A. Harris Mr. and Mrs. S. Reed, Madame Manasko of Eagle Rock. From Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Tate, Mr.

SUNDAY SCHOOL JOINT PICNIC.

The joint picnic of the Sunday schools of the valley occurs on July 20, Thursday, when the crowd goes to Long Beach for the day. Cars will leave Glendale at 8 a. m. by the Pacific Electric, and it is expected that the record will be broken as to the number of people participating. Everybody is invited. There will be nothing denominational and very little suggestive of Sunday school about the affair.

CHANGE OF LOCATION.

The Cut Rate Hardware Co. has moved from the corner of Third and Glendale avenue to number 537 West Fourth street, in with the Glendale Plumbing Company.

LA CANYADA

Development of Water Better than First Thought—H. E. Huntington and Senator Flint Interested

We are informed that the well which was reported in the NEWS a few weeks ago as having been developed in the eastern end of the La Canada valley, proves to be better than at first reported and is now furnishing thirty inches of water. The lack of an abundant water supply is the only thing that has kept that section back for many years and this well seems to afford a solution for the problem of development which now promises to be rapid. One of the prominent personages having interests in La Canada is ex-Senator Flint. For a number of years Mr. Flint has owned a large tract of land at the upper end of Sycamore canon on this (south) side of the ridge extending over into the La Canada valley and adjoining a seven hundred acre tract in which he is interested with Mr. Huntington. This latter property extends from near the rear end of the Lanterman property eastward to near Devil's Gate. Within the past ten days Mr. Huntington has acquired a strip of land connecting this tract with the Devil's Gate and reaching to the Salt Lake right of way on the Pasadena side of the arroyo. Mr. Flint has also by recent purchase obtained possession of frontage on Michigan avenue, so that from a short distance eastward from the Lanterman place to the east side of the arroyo the whole northern slope of the hills separating La Canada from Sycamore canon, belongs to these two men. This tract embraces several hundred acres of most attractive sloping land, ideal for residence purposes. Mr. Flint is preparing to build a fine residence on the Michigan avenue property. Along this avenue the Good Roads highway extends on down through Verdugo Canon into Glendale. It is understood that Mr. Huntington contemplates the construction of a boulevard south of and approximately parellel with Michigan avenue, following the contour of the hills. This would open up the property in excellent shape and if its sale and consequent improvement should be pushed by Messrs. Huntington and Flint, it would mean great things to be accomplished in La Canada within a very brief space of time.

Mr. Geo. L. Howes of Los Angeles, husband of Mrs. Cora Belle Howes, who gave so successfully the entertainment "Cinderella in Flower Land" has been engaged to instruct the singers of the valley for the "Cantata of Queen Esther." First rehearsals were held Monday and Thursday nights, at M. E. church. All are welcome to come and enter this entertaining and artistic production. Please do not wait for a personal invitation but consider this as such.

DEATH OF MRS. PETERSILEA.

Mrs. Amelia Petersilea, widow of the late Carlyle Petersilea, the noted pianist who died three or four years ago, died at her home on Ninth street last Friday evening and was cremated Saturday forenoon in Los Angeles. Mrs. Petersilea had been suffering for some time but had only been confined to bed a few days. Since the death of Mr. Petersilea, she has lived alone and appears to have had no relatives on the coast.

BOOK SOCIAL.

A dime book social under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will be held at the home of Mrs. F. E. Albright, 309 Orange street, on the afternoon of July 27th, from 2:30 to 5 p. m. All ladies are invited to come and bring a friend and to represent some book which the others are to guess. Those having their yard of pennies ready, please bring them at that time.

During the last two months the Verdugo Springs Water Company has made 22 new connections for domestic use. Three of these have been in Houston's West Glendale tract and seven in Oliver's West Glendale tract. This is a pointer on growth.

GLENDALE, CAL., JULY 14, 1911

Chairman Jones of the National Prohibition Party is in Los Angeles, and is quoted as expressing the belief that national prohibition is possible within four years, and the reporter calls him an optimist! Why, President Jones would make the ordinary optimist look as pessimistic as a June bug at the approach of a hard winter!

Motorcycles are becoming a dangerous nuisance in Glendale and vicinity. Their riders have too frequently no regard for the speed limit; they turn corners recklessly, run without lights at night, and are altogether allowed too great a license. Some day there will be someone hurt, and the local authorities will get real severe for a time.

The fact that John D. Rockefeller experienced a hot night in Cleveland during the late spell of summer weather, has been considered a worthy subject of a "special dispatch."

There will be those who will intimate that a hot night is nothing to the temperature John D. will have to endure hereafter.

John D. Bicknell, who died in Los Angeles last Friday, was one of the leading lawyers of Southern California and no member of the bar was more highly respected. In the first litigation into which the Verdugo Canon Water Co. entered some twenty years ago to protect the rights of the landowners in this section, Judge Bicknell was the first lawyer consulted. The writer who was one of [illegible] committee that waited upon him and stated the case of the company [illegible] members distinctly the fatherly manner in which Judge Bicknell discoursed upon the uncertainties of the law, particularly in reference to water rights, a subject which he said was comparatively new, the courts having no established precedents to guide them; the substance of his advice being to keep out of court as long as possible. And yet John D. Bicknell was one of that much maligned class, the "corporation lawyer!"

THE "DICK TO DICK" LETTER.

The anti-Taft papers that laid [illegible] much stress on the importance of the "Dick to Dick" letter when the co[illegible] of the alleged epistle was first published are now busy asserting that, as it cannot be found, it is not very important, anyhow! This letter, it will be remembered, was claimed by a young lady correspondent of Collier's to have been found by her in the files of the interior department, and now that it is wanted to corroborate by its evidence the young lady's story, it has mysteriously disappeared! Of course, there exists the possibility that the letter once existed and has been stolen from the files by or for some interested party. If such a letter ever existed, it was clearly private property, and if "Dick" Ballinger was one-tenth as great a rascal as Collier's Weekly tried ineffectually to prove, he would be unlikely to put such an epistle in a file that is open to any investigator. It looks as if the young lady "faked" the letter. Collier's has done some good work in exposing frauds, but it is possible that in its role of professional muck-raker, many of its shots are fired at random, and its appetite for scandal grows with what it feeds upon.

The people who wish to form an honest opinion need to look with suspicion upon every story that has for its apparent object the blackening of the character of the President.

SENATOR WORKS AND CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

The speech of Senator John D. Works in the United States senate the other day in which he declared his belief in Christian Science and related to that supposed-to-be august body his personal experience, was certainly unique. But taken in connection with the circumstances and the subject before the senate which gave him an excuse for making it, the speech cannot be said to have been inappropriate. The discussion was in regard to a bill which proposes to give to a national body of medicos, more or less control of the individual freedom of the people of the United States in matters pertaining to health. As the national association and the state medical associations are controlled by the members of one particular school of medicine, Senator Works who is a fervent believer in the efficacy of Christian Science as a curative medium, was certainly justified in doing the best he could to show why no one school of medicine should be given the power to dictate to anyone as to what means he shall use to protect himself from disease. The majority of the people refuse to accept Christian Science as either Christian or scientific, but they cannot deny that a belief in it has been of material benefit to a great many people. The world is moving too rapidly to permit of any one school of thought and action arrogating to itself all the virtue, knowledge and wisdom of the universe. As long as the individual is benefited and society not endangered, as during the prevalence of contagious diseases, the individual must be allowed perfect freedom in his selection of the means of cure.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP IN WATER.

We publish in this issue a valuable contribution to the subject of municipal ownership of our local water supply. The advocates of municipal ownership need to obtain much more knowledge of the subject than is commonly possessed. The article alluded to shows that as a rule the water rights of Verdugo Canyon are not vested in the water companies, which are in general mere distributing concerns, formed for the purpose of carrying water to their stockholders, who are the real owners of the water rights, and that these owners number considerably more than 300 persons.

The idea of municipal ownership of water is, we believe, theoretically correct, and in the course of time it will probably come to pass. But the realization of this dream is hedged about with many difficulties, and is probably not to be realized for some years to a very large extent. It may prove practical to start it in a small way in the near future by the city's acquiring in some way a small plant covering a limited territory as a nucleus toward which to work as circumstances permit. Even if it seemed practicable to put municipal ownership to a test at the present time, it would probably prove wise to defer it until more is known of the effect of [illegible] of water sufficient [illegible] ulation we shall have in this section of the valley for many years to come. In the meantime it would seem that the law giving to municipalities the power to regulate the water companies might be invoked in cases where their system is inadequate or their rates unreasonable.

SAN DIEGO'S GROUND BREAKING CELEBRATION.

Wednesday, July 19th—9 a. m. to 10 a. m., church parade; 10 to 12 a. m., pontifical mass in Balboa park; 2 to 5 p. m., ground-breaking civic parade and ceremonies in Balboa park; 7:30 to 10:30 p. m., fireworks, water carnival and reception to Cabrillo.

Friday, July 21—10 a. m., industrial and civic pageant; 2 to 5 p. m., athletic and water sports; 8 p. m. to midnight, grand mask ball and reception at headquarters of various fraternal and civic societies; masque ball.

Saturday, July 22—10 a. m., mission parade; 2 p. m., athletic and water sports; 6 p. m., carnival, farewell of Queen Ramona; queen's carnival ball.

Sunday last Mr. J. E. Busch, Fred Blay, Wm. Anderson and Wm. Dickinson took an auto run up to Antelope Valley. At Willow Springs they found Capt. J. M. Wells who is camping there alone. They report the captain greatly improved in health, having gained fifteen paunds since leaving Glendale two or three months ago.

Friday evening the regular monthly card party of the Glendale Country Club will be held in the club parlors Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hester will be host and hostess of the evening.

Mrs. R. H. Wells and Miss Katherine Wells of West Fourth street were guests on Saturday of Mrs George V. Meserole at Hotel Virginia Long Beach.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BANQUET

Good Attendance—Good Speeches and a Success, as a Get-Together Event

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce gave its first banquet last Tuesday evening at Odd Fellows Hall, and over a hundred members and guests sat down at the tables. There was delay in beginning the program, but when the eatables had been disposed of, and Toastmaster Emery started the "talk-fest," the time passed rapidly. Mayor John Robert White was the first speaker called upon, and he responded in an appropriate speech, in which he dwelt upon the varied attractions of Glendale and called upon every citizen to "boost for Glendale—not for a part or a section of it, but for all parts and all sections." Mr. E. D. Goode responded to the toast, "Benefits Derived From Electric Railroads." He spoke particularly about the necessity for raising of bonuses in order to secure them. It is not only necessary and proper from a railroad standpoint, but as an investment is unexcelled. He quoted specific instances showing the rapid increase in the selling value of property, showing that the amount a property owner gives as an inducement for the construction of an electric railway is a paying investment. Mr. R. A. Blackburn spoke on "Latest Developments in Glendale's Transportation Facilities," and gave the latest information of interest to the public along that line. Mr. Blackburn brought an encouraging message from Mr. Paul Shoup of the Pacific Electric Company to the people of this section in the shape of a promise from that gentleman to submit in a short time a definite proposition for the extension of that company's lines in this city. Messr. Blackburn, Watson and Shropshire, as a committee, had taken the matter up with Mr. Shoup about two months ago, and found him interested in it, since which time he has been investigating the matter, and the inference is that the plans for extension as outlined by the committee have been considered seriously. The proposition apparently being considered by Mr. Shoup is that of making connection at Tropico between the P. E. line and the Salt Lake tracks at Tropico (they being at that point only a block apart), and running over the latter company's rails up Glendale avenue to the north city limits of Glendale. A resolution was read by Dr. R. E. Chase and adopted by those present, pledging this community to use every honorable effort to bring about this consummation, particularly by subscribing a reasonable amount of bonus.

At this point Mr. Frank Geiger, of Los Angeles, favored the assembly with two songs in his inimitable style. Dr. R. E. Bryant spoke on the subject of libraries, alluding to the great value of books, giving credit to the ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon Club for their excellent work in bringing into being and maintaining as long as they did our library, which is now remarkably prosperous and is growing rapidly. There are almost three times as many books taken out this year as there were last; the number of volumes now being 1,768, of which 656 have been added this year. The library takes 48 magazines, not for reference, but for the use of patrons at their homes if they wish them. He strongly advised the acceptance of Mr. Carnegie's offer of $10,000 for a new library.

Mr. Harry Lynch, manager of Glendale's lighting system, made an excellent talk on "Advantages of Municipal Ownership," stating that of fifteen municipally owned utilities in Southern California every one could be considered a success. Our own lighting plant has paid off $3,000 on the bonded indebtedness, keeps up current expenses, and provides for extensions as they are required. Variety was put into the program at this point by two enjoyable songs by Mr. Owen Emery, accompanied by Mrs. Burket on the piano and Dana Burket on the 'cello. Mr. M. V. Hartranft, of Sunland, spoke on the ways of promoting new towns and building up communities generally, making a pen picture of the contrast between barley fields and bungalows.

Mr. G. B. Woodberry, whose long experience with the affairs of the water companies makes him an authority on the subject, was down for a talk on the water question, but as it was 11 o'clock when he was called upon, he told an appropriate anecdote, and said he would defer discussing the subject until another time. Little Gertrude Klein sang an up-to-date song and responded to an encore. Mr. T. W. Watson was also on the program for something on "The Water Situation," and his speech was also shortened by the lateness of the hour; he related, however, the result of an interview with the water commissioners of Los Angeles city, in which they elaborated somewhat the ideas recently published as to their intentions in regard to Owens River water. It was evident, he said, that Los Angeles will be liberal in supplying territory which becomes a part of the larger city. They will supply the water, but the community must build its own distributing system. It was near midnight when the first banquet of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce came to an end, all agreeing that as a get-together proposition it was a great success.

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor GLENDALE NEWS:

Since J. L. W.'s sensitive organism recoils from the shock of certain jolting barbarisms that crept into my former communication, I shall endeavor in this to confine myself wholly to elegant English. And though I find that my memory served me admirably before, and that his argument regarding property and education essential to the right use of the ballot was squarely met, I shall throughout this letter wherever necessary, give only his exact words.

J. L. W. says, "I would raise the age of all voters to thirty years, at which age men and women have generally acquired a more mature judgment, and have had a wider experience of life and are therefore better able to decide the many perplexing problems which arise at every election." In this delicate way would J. L. W. disfranchise me! In this, also, he gives us a hint of his own age, and all the nice things that he says go with age. He is at least over thirty.

The age question is generally admitted to be one requiring careful handling, but while we are on the subject I should like very much to have J. L. W. consider this quotation from a master of elegant English:

"The atrocious crime of being a young man, which the honorable gentleman has, with such spirit and decency charged upon me, I shall neither attempt to palliate nor deny; but content myself with wishing that I may be one of those whose follies may cease with their youth, and not of that number who are ignorant in spite of experience. Whether youth can be imputed to any man as a reproach I will not, sir, assume the province of determining; but surely age may become justly contemptible, if the opportunities which it brings have passed away without improvement."

Whether one is at thirty "better able to decide the many perplexing problems that arise" than he or she is twenty-one, depends largely on his surroundings, his associates, his reading, and his struggle for a living. It is a matter which any man, however mature, should weigh well before deciding.

Evidently, J. L. W. does not take into account that there are some (to be conservative, let us say seventy-five per cent of the population) with whom the daily struggle for a living is so fierce that they find it impossible to devote what leisure they have to study, just as it was impossible for them even to attend, much less graduate "from high school; for he says that in the interval between the high school graduation and my proposed age limit they would have ample time to cultivate more thoroughly the political instinct and inform their minds." Apparently he is not himself well-informed or he would know that considerably less than one-fourth of the graduates of the grammar schools go through high school. If time is all that is necessary in cultivating the political instinct, it would seem that those who omit the four years of high school have the advantage. The women to whom the right to vote is becoming a necessity that they may influence legislation in their behalf are the thousands of women who have been forced into all lines of work during the last thirty years, those who toil long hours at health-racking occupations for a wage that is only a pretense and a sham. Do you suppose that their condition would not improve if they had the ballot, and know how to use it? But no; these women must not vote. We must have "some modified scheme of woman suffrage worked out on an educational and property-owning basis!"

Do I "think it possible for civilization to advance by a lop-sided arrangement in which only men's interests are protected?" Of course not. What prompted that question, I wonder?

"And lastly, what real interests have women apart from those of men?" None whatever. Their interests being identical, both should have the ballot.

JOHN R. DOYLE.

LOS ANGELES THEATRES

BELASCO THEATER—"THE WHITE SISTER."

Los Angeles theatergoers have witnessed Viola Allen's splendid artistry as displayed in F. Marion Crawford's last and unquestionably greatest play "The White Sister." This week, at the Belasco theater, Thais Magrane will succeed Miss Allen as the heroine of the Crawford story, and in company with Lewis S. Stone and the others of the Belasco organization will offer the first stock production of this vivid recital of the battle of self love and love of the Omnipotent One.

The role of Angela, Sister Giovanni is one of great emotional intensity, beneath which lie the qualities of sweetness and humility. For such a part Thais Magrane is eminently suited. Her gift of naturalness, her sincerity and her sense of dramatic perception will no doubt vitalize the part of the tragic Angelio with a great, tremendous human appeal.

In the role of Captain Surveri, Lewis S. Stone will have a part very much to his liking, and one that will afford him fine opportunities for the sort of histrionism the Belasco patrons most admire him.

James Neill, the well-known actor who has had so much to do with the making of Los Angeles' theatrical history, will make his first appearance with the Belasco company in "The White Sister." Mr. Neill will be seen in the important part of Monsignore Sarascinesca, and in addition will undoubtedly come in for a goodly portion of praise for the excellence of the production, as the Crawford play will signalize Neill's initial effort as the stage director of the Belasco company.

THE PLAYGOERS SOCIETY.

With a view to introducing to the public a number of new plays, plays which ordinarily would never see the glare of the footlights, and also plays by local authors, the Playgoers Society has been organized, and will make its first public appearance next Thursday evening at Cumnock hall, when "The Devil's Disciple," by George Bernard Shaw will be presented for the first time in Los Angeles. This performance will be the first of four which will take place this month, the subsequent ones being as follows: Monday, July 24, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, and a one-act play by Mrs. E. K. Foster; Thursday, July 27, "The Showing up of Blanco Posnet," by Shaw, "'Op o' My Thumb," and "Pandora," by Antony Anderson; Monday, July 31, "Don," by Rudolf Besier. These plays will be staged with all the completeness of professional productions, and the players, while all amateurs with one or two exceptions, have distinguished themselves in numerous private theatricals. R. H. Seward, who will play the part in which Mansfield starred in "The Devil's Disciple," has been leading man of the Stanford players for three years at that university. Miss Williamene Wilkes, who is responsible for the organization of the society, is stage director, and will play another leading part. Miss Caroline Ferris will be seen in an important character role; Miss Ellen Galpin is the ingenue, and other important members of the company are Edwin Walker, who has been prominent in Berkeley theatricals, Paul Eliel of Pasadena, who has been a member of the Stanford university players, Douglas Arnold, who has just closed a season with May Robson, Franklin McClusky, Miss Ida Thompson, Miss Caroline Abrams, Everett Maxwell, Harold Mosher, Miss Dora Holmes, Miss Alma Holmes, Miss Maud Howells. "The Devil's Disciple" is a typically brilliant Shaw play, full of humor and ideas of a stimulating sort.

A TOO TRUE TALE.

I met him first a year ago,
And sprightly was his style,
The light of hope was in his eye,
And sunny was his smile.
His store was stocked with brand new goods,
And all was spick and span;
In fact he had the outward form
Of a successful man.

I said to him: "The signs are right,
And seem to promise well,
The only question seems to be,
Will all these good goods sell.
Of course you know that in this age
Man must with man compete,
You've got to advertise or else
You go down to defeat."

He smiled a supercilious smile,
Which said the world was his;
Quoth he, "Dear Sir, I do not need
To advertise this biz."

I met that man again today,
His countenance was long,
The light of hope had fled his eye,
And mournful was his song.
"My friend," he said in humble tone,
"I find that I was wrong,
I sang most sweetly, but the world
Paid no heed to my song."

"I see the error of my ways,
But now alas too late,
This truth is in upon me borne,
This the decree of fate—
A man may sing his wares all day,
May laud them to the skies,
But he who sells the goods must catch
The wide world's myriad eyes."

DO YOU KNOW?

Do you know what woman suffrage means? And do you know that the question of the right of women to self-government is one which is commanding the attention of the whole civilized world? That working woman suffrage organizations of representative men and women exist in twenty-one counties: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Bohemia, Bulgaria, Canada, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Iceland, Italy, Holland, Hungary, Norway, Russia, South Africa, Sweden, Switzerland, United States? Do you know that there were 26 woman members in the Finland parliament in 1909? Do you know that the women of Wyoming have voted upon the same terms as men since 1869? The women of Colorado since 1893? The women of Utah and Idaho since 1896? The women of Washington since 1910? That more girls than boys graduate from our high schools every year? Women suffrage does not mean more ignorant votes. Colorado women voters are a power for good government? They cannot bring the millenium because they are outnumbered by the men by the thousands; they do not control any part of the political machinery and do not fill pulpits and other prominent positions of influence. Without the women there could not have been a campaign for a "dry" Denver. Denver did not go "wet," it stayed "wet," but with additions of a large "dry" section. The initiative, referendum and recall laws were secured by woman's vote and have become part of the constitution. The Ladies Home Journal which has been supported by women all over the land, offered a large sum to a Denver woman for an article against woman suffrage. She refused. The man who did write it in the January number (if I am not mistaken) told Judge Lindsay that for $500 he would write an article against him and so he did, for money, nothing else. Gold, gold! White ribboners in Denver refused to be interviewed by him. Do you know that Mrs. Carrie Nation was not a lawbreaker? And in no case in her smashing of saloons in Kansas did she violate a single statute and to her more than to any one else, does Kansas owe its now splendid conditions of law enforcement. She had right to hate the liquor traffic, as all mothers should. After she had smashed the bar in a hotel in Wichita, and made a raid on several joints, other smashing parties were formed all over the state and bills were passed by the legislature strengthening the prohibitory laws then existing. Today Kansas has prohibitory laws which are rigidly enforced, and women's smashing helped very much. David D. Lealy, secretary to Governor Stubbs of Kansas in an article over his name in "Union Signal," says: "There are always good men in every state who can be trusted to shake their heads at prohibition until its economic utility can be demonstrated. I, in common with practically everybody in my home town, Wichita, opposed prohibition for years. We were like a great many people who thought it would beggar the taxpayers and that store windows would be pasted over with show bills to hide the vacancy of business rooms. During the past year over eighteen hundred new houses were built in the town, including two ten-story business blocks and new churches and school houses aggregating nearly a million dollars." I do not believe that there is a city on earth whose business circumstances justify the saloon. It is not to the interest of the business man anywhere to see his customers especially those who are laboring men spending in the saloons what should be spent in the grocery store, the shoe store, or meat market, or that which should be put into a home instead of paying rent. All logic and philosophy is against it and Kansas has proved it. Full prohibition best. Until 1909 Kansas allowed drug stores to sell whisky and other liquors for medical purposes. This privilege was abused (it always is) and the people were aroused and prohibited the sale of liquor for any purpose. What happened? The bank deposits which had been gaining gradually about a million a year (I mean state bank deposits) made a sudden jump of $14,000,000, or from $83,000,000 to $97,000,000, which shows that something happened to interest business men in prohibition. And to show that some specific and unusual thing caused this, the deposits again assumed a steady and normal increase which they have maintained ever since.

MRS. HATTIE E. GAYLORD.

A PASTOR UNIQUE

Speaks to Catholics, Freethinkers and Jews.

Pastor Russell Addresses Immense Audiences in London, Brooklyn and Elsewhere — Reaches Ten Million American Homes Through One Thousand Newspapers.

To hear Pastor Russell is the desire of many Catholics, Protestants and independent thinkers, who appreciate the published sermons of the celebrated editor, author and orator of the Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Pastor Russell usually speaks under the auspices of the unsectarian Bible classes of the large cities, in public places, where all may assemble on neutral ground, free from denominational prejudice, the pastor accepting only invitations where the seats are free and no collection to be taken, he in turn accepting no fee for his lectures.

Perhaps the most remarkable congregation on earth is that of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, over 20 nationalities being represented in its board of elders and deacons. Pastor Russell, when in America, orally serves his congregation on the first Sunday of each month. The Academy of Music, Brooklyn's largest auditorium, is now used on Pastor Russell's home days and is often insufficient to accommodate the ever-increasing crowd.

Pastor Russell, by his defense of the Bible as God's inspired revelation to man, has won the admiration of the vast majority of unprejudiced truth-seeking Bible students. He came into prominence in New England in 1877. Since then his field of activity has continually broadened, until now over 10,000,000 American families are served by the 1,000 newspapers now publishing his weekly sermons. He is the author of a work now in its fourth million.

Why He Became Independent.

He was reared under the strictest religious discipline as a Protestant. His instructors believed and taught the old style "Hell Fire" doctrine. To save his fellows from such a fate he went about his native city, inscribing upon walls and fences Bible texts calling sinners to repentance. During the next few years, while growing up into commercial life he devoted much time to the investigation of Buddhaism, Confucianism and other oriental religions, to the end that they were found unworthy of credence. The thought, "Which is the true gospel?" became a living question in his inquiring mind, which continually reverted to the mixed condition and contrary claims of Christendom. He questioned, "Should I try to find the truth? Why not lay aside such arduous study and win fame and fortune in a most promising commercial life now well started?" This he was about to do, but decided that he would first investigate the Scriptures and let the Bible speak for itself on fire and brimstone.

Amazed at the harmonious testimony proving an unexpected but satisfactory answer, he continued a "topical" Bible research and was brought to a complete confidence in the Bible as being inspired by an all-wise, all-powerful, all-just and loving Creator, worthy to be adored and worshiped. This was a beginning of a new ambition, and the question then was, What should he do and how he should do it. Determining, if possible, to reach every truth-seeker, whether Catholic, Protestant, Jew or Free-thinker, he found it necessary to stand free of all sectarian bonds and to inaugurate an independent work. His first effort was the preparation of a booklet entitled, "Food for Thinking Christians"—1,400,000 copies being delivered to the public free of cost.

Interested in Jewish Hopes.

Pastor Russell early discovered that hundreds of texts relating to the promises of Israel were as yet unfulfilled, and he became intensely interested in the history of the Jews, past, present and future—but especially in their future. An extensive tour of the Holy Land was accomplished in 1892. The bud of the coming Jewish nation had scarcely put forth at that time. However, great strides toward a Jewish polity have since been accomplished, and Pastor Russell predicts that the budding of a Jewish springtime will soon be recorded in history.

He revisited Palestine last spring and addressed the Jews in the largest hall in Jerusalem from Isaiah xi, 1, 2. Upon his arrival home, Pastor Russell announced that his next topic at the Academy of Music would be "Jerusalem." So unusual, so strange, to see a Christian minister dilating upon Jewish hopes that all Jewry waited in expectation of something—they knew not what. So great was the interest on this occasion that hundreds of Jews, as well as hundreds of Gentiles, were unable to obtain admittance to hear the speaker. This discourse was published in 15 New York Jewish newspapers and by the Jewish press of many cities in Great Britain, Russia and America.

Last October he addressed a Jewish mass meeting in the New York Hippodrome on "Zionism in Prophecy," and has since addressed Jewish mass meetings in the London Royal Albert Hall and in Manchester, Glasgow and the Chicago Armory. Since returning from Europe he has spoken in many cities. Invitations accepted for 1911 will take him to the Pacific coast and two separate trips to Great Britain. By continuous labors Pastor Russell has fully earned the appellation, "America's Ubiquitous Preacher."

CHAPTER XIV.

THE flat freight rate was a tremendous sensation. It was hailed as the great utopian realization, the one supreme act which was to level all distinctions, which was to place all business upon an equal footing, which was to cure all the economic ills of the country. And who was back of this huge philanthropic move? Rollins—Sumner Rollins, the Napoleon of the railroad world. And who was back of Sumner Rollins? Henry Breed. Yet another step, who was back of Breed? Phillip Kelvin. There was the man! Until Kelvin had come Breed had done none of these radical things. Since Kelvin had appeared upon the scene Breed had broken up the Stock Exchange, he had reduced the price of bread to cost, he had disintegrated the Unified Steel corporation, he had removed the unjust discrimination of the railroads; ergo, Kelvin was really the big force of all this reformation.

Kelvin! Great was Kelvin! Column upon column was printed about him, his past life, his phenomenal rise, his tremendous executive ability. He became a national figure overnight, as it were. Men talked about him at clubs, in cafes, in street cars, in their homes, wherever they were congregated. About the flat rate, however, certain men merely winked. It was a splendid piece of buncombe for the public. It was a splendid weapon which would give Breed power of life and death over any business upon which he chose to exert it, but that it meant just what it stated on the surface was past belief.

Suave gentlemen representing various large interests trailed Rollins from his New York offices down to Forest Lakes to meet in succession quite rude shocks. There was positively no satisfaction to be had from Rollins.

The first of these was John G. Hepperdon, the head of the petroleum trust, one of the most perfect combines in existence and one which had been built almost entirely upon rebates and freight concessions of various sorts. Mr. Hepperdon was a trifle impatient over the necessity of having to make such a trip and was insistent upon coming to a crisp working basis at once. For that reason he did not go to Mr. Rollins at all. He very calmly walked over that gentleman's figurative head to Mr. Breed.

"Hello, Breed," said he, walking in upon that gentleman as he sat in his library poring over a set of photographs, one of which happened to be Mr. Hepperdon's. "Let's get down to blunt bedrock on this freight proposition. How much of a rebate are we to get, and what percentage of it goes to you individually?"

"Glad to see you, Hepperdon," said Breed. "It has been a long time since I had the pleasure of a brush with you. Where have you been keeping yourself so long?"

"Just got back from Europe," said Hepperdon. "But how about this freight business? I have to get back on the next train."

"Out of my hands entirely," said Breed. "You'll have to see Mr. Rollins," and he made for Kelvin, to whom he gravely introduced Hepperdon. "Mr. Kelvin, take Mr. Hepperdon up and introduce him to Mr. Rollins," said he.

Kelvin smilingly did so and, having introduced the two gentlemen, quietly withdrew.

"There is to be no rebate," declared Rollins. "Why should there be a rebate? You have to ship over our roads, and you may be thankful that we are making only a fair percentage yielding rate. As a matter of fact, the previously published rate has been lowered."

"That is exactly what I don't like about it. You haven't set your rate high enough for a good margin of profit from the small shippers."

"The margin of profit on all shipments is to be exactly the same," replied Rollins. "Just disabuse your mind, Mr. Hepperdon, of the idea that there is to be a concession of any sort. There is no use in discussing the matter because this is flat and final."

"Do you mean that?" demanded Hepperdon.

"I mean it absolutely."

Hepperdon studied him in silence for awhile. There was no doubt that Rollins meant precisely what he said.

"Very well," snapped Hepperdon. "Within two weeks there will be a special bill introduced into the United States house of representatives dissolving your railroad combination."

Hepperdon was waddling out of the house fuming without stopping to make any further adieus to Breed when Kelvin stopped him in the hall.

"Hepperdon, about how much political influence do you actually control?" asked Breed.

"More than any one aggregation of business interests in the United States," declared Hepperdon. "I own exclusively a cabinet officer, five United States senators, more than a dozen United States representatives and half a dozen governors and minor officials, state legislators and the like running up into the hundreds. Besides that, I have partnership interests in connection with other large commercial forces in two or three times as many more political leaders."

"That tallies very well with our estimate," said Breed. "We may want to borrow this influence of yours a little later on, Hepperdon. In the meantime suppose you just go ahead and pay this flat rate of Rollins' and say nothing. Leave it to me."

"Sure," said Hepperdon. "I knew there must be a nigger in the wood pile some place. You're looking very well indeed, Breed."

The next day brought Raymer, rawboned and wooden featured, but fairly oily in his suavity, and the head of the beef trust, and Valentine, little and screechy and marked with countless black freckles, and the head of the woolen combine. In unison and garnished with many rugged expletives, Mr. Raymer and Mr. Valentine declared to Mr. Rollins that they would invoke special legislation which would put his railway monopoly out of the business, dissolve it and separate it into healthy competition, scatter it into easily handled fragments and incidentally remove Mr. Rollins from any and all spheres of activity whatsoever forever and a day—and then some! On their way out Kelvin led them in to see Mr. Breed, who, with Kelvin's assistance, tabulated Mr. Raymer's and Mr. Valentine's legislative control.

The ensuing two weeks were taken up by a succession of such incidents as these, and at the conclusion of that time Representative Oswald introduced into the house a bill providing that no railroad should own stock in another one; that no man should vote control, by proxy or ownership, in more than one of two or more competing roads and that no railroad official should hold either office or stock in another line of rails which reached between any two same shipping points. This was the straw, or, rather, the bale of straw, which snapped Rollins' already highly strung nervous tension. He came to Breed and Kelvin in much distress. Really, it was not so much a surprise to Kelvin and Breed as it might have been, for it was they who had instructed Hepperdon as to the psychological moment in which to have Oswald introduce his bill.

"I expected nothing else," said Breed, glancing at the marconigram and handing it to Kelvin. "You know, we told you in the first place that it might be necessary to make certain concessions."

"Never!" declared Rollins. "We'll fight them to the last ditch. They have introduced this bill, but they have not yet passed it."

"But they will the minute it comes to a vote," said Kelvin. "Come up to my rooms and let me show you a diagram, Mr. Rollins."

In his office Phillip displayed a curious sheet of cardboard almost as large as the top of his desk upon which the name of every senator and every United States representative was set down. A few were marked in red as men who were not for sale, but the rest, the vast majority, were divided into groups, one "owned" by Hepperdon, another by Raymer, another by Valentine, etc., and the names were in some places cross grouped showing that certain of the senators and certain of the representatives served several nonconflicting interests. The diagram told at a glance precisely how every man would vote on this bill.

"Such a state of affairs does exist," asserted Kelvin. "You may close your eyes and touch a pencil point in succession upon any half dozen names there not ringed with red. Wire those gentlemen and ask them to tell you by tomorrow how they intend to vote on this bill."

"I'll do it," said Rollins.

By afternoon Rollins had answers to all his wires. Four declared without reserve that they were for the bill—on principle. Two answered evasively.

"It looks bad, but we mustn't allow this state of affairs," protested Rollins. "We must use counter strategy."

"There is only one that I know of," stated Kelvin quietly. "Concessions."

"I will resign from my management before I make a solitary concession!" declared Rollins.

"Would you pay $5,000 for a building lot if you knew that you could immediately sell it for $10,000?" demanded Kelvin.

"Certainly," replied Rollins. "But I don't see where the illustration applies."

"In just this way," explained Kelvin. "With concessions buy legislators from enough of these men to secure legislative control and go after the balance. This gives your flat rate pretty wide scope, Rollins, and it protects us until we can control our own legislation. We have, Mr. Breed and myself, as you must have appreciated by now, certain large ideas of reform. There never was a more just and equitable contrivance than your flat freight rate, but you can see at once what powerful interests are arrayed against it. We must conciliate those interests in order to cripple them. We will rent Hepperdon's and Raymer's senators until we can buy them or supplant them with some of our own."

Rollins was silent for a long time.

"It is a very simple proposition, Rollins," urged Breed. "You are only granting these concessions in order to be able later on to refuse them."

"Doing evil that good may come, eh?" laughed Rollins a little uneasily.

"Put it that way if you like," responded Breed dryly, "but when you are president of the United States, with the house of representatives and the senate in thorough sympathy with you"—

"President!" exclaimed Rollins.

"Yes, president," returned Breed. "I don't mind telling you our slate now. Our program includes this coming campaign running Kelvin for president and yourself for vice president. Mr. Kelvin wants but four years as president. At the expiration of his term of office we intend to put you up for president."

"And we'll elect you," supplemented Kelvin confidently.

"President!" repeated Rollins in a daze.

They had touched the right cord. To be president!

"The plans are under way," stated Breed. "We have had them secretly at work for a year. Today we could almost do without Hepperdon and Raymer and the others, but not quite. What do you suppose became of all the so called 'railroad senators?' Did you ever wonder why they bothered you so little? Well, I took care of them—added them to my group. Mr. Rollins, I am an old man." Breed's hand strayed to the corner of his table where lay his well thumbed old Bible. He clasped it in his hand and pressed it against his body. "I am an old man, an old, old man," he repeated. "I have done some evil in my life, I suppose, but all this time I have been acquiring power, more power than any man in the world has ever possessed, and I intend to use this power for good. I intend to upset the very conditions by which I gained this power, for it is the fault of our economic system that I have so wonderfully succeeded. This fault is to be remedied. For the rest of my life I intend to exert this great power for nothing but good, to exert it in making a readjustment of the living conditions so that neither great wealth nor great poverty shall be possible. The Lord hath set the time for this great day, and mine is the appointed hand!"

D., 1911, recorded in Judgment Book 222 of said Court, at page 302, I am commanded to sell all that certain lot, piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and bounded and described as follows: Being the southerly 120 feet of Lot 147 and the westerly 35 feet of the southerly 120 feet of Lot 146 and the southerly 120 feet of Lot 148, all of the Pioneer Investment & Trust Company's Glendale Place, as per map thereof recorded in the office of the County Recorder of said Los Angeles County in Book 8, pages 122 and 123, of Maps, including the buildings thereon. Together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Public notice is hereby given, that on Tuesday, the 18th day of July A. D., 1911, at 12 o'clock M. of that day, in front of the Court House door of the County of Los Angeles, Broadway entrance, I will, in obedience to said order of sale and decree of foreclosure and sale, sell the above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment, with interests and costs, etc., to the highest and best bidder, for cash of the United States.

Dated this 22nd day of June, 1911.

W. A. HAMMEL,
Sheriff of Los Angeles County.
By E. W. Biscailuz,
Deputy Sheriff.
H. S. G. McCartney,
Plaintiff's Attorney.

Tropico and Glendale are practically one community joining Los Angeles City on the north; the former five and the latter six miles in a direct line from the Court House in Los Angeles. Glendale is an incorporated city of the sixth class with about 2700 population. Pacific Electric cars leave Sixth street depot half hourly, Eagle Rock cars leaving Twelfth and Broadway every half hour, connecting at Eagle Rock with car for Glendale. Rapidly increasing in population and importance. Schools, churches, fraternal societies, business establishments and all the accessories of an up-to-date suburban community.

Care of the Feet

Always buy good shoes: Cheap ones, as a rule, are not worth the money paid for them. Have three pairs always on hand—a heavy pair exclusively for walking, a best pair and a pair for the house—it means rest for the feet, rest for the shoes and a longer usefulness to both.

For excessive perspiration: Bathe the feet in water in which a few drops of ammonia have been poured and follow by a good rubbing with alcohol.

For tender feet: A bandage wet with alum water and put on when retiring will be found very strengthening.

A warm foot bath, with a handful of sea salt in it, is about as restful as a nap. Paddle in it until it cools, dry with a rough towel, put on fresh stockings and have a change of shoes.

BURBANK THEATER — SECOND WEEK OF "THE THIEF."

So completely overwhelming has been the success of Miss Margaret Illington in "The Thief" that this truly great play, with its incomparable cast will be continued at the Burbank theater for another week, commencing with the matinee today. Since the first performance of "The Thief" the Burbank has attracted overflowing audiences, and thousands of prospective play patrons have been unable to get seats for this most remarkable performance. As a matter of solid, hard, actual verity, more people have been turned away, unable to get seats, than have witnessed this big performance, an unprecedented circumstance in the history of local theatricals, and from the literally tremendous advance sale of seats for the second week of "The Thief," the same condition promises to continue for another seven days.

Miss Illington, great as is her personal triumph in "The Thief," does not claim all the honors of the performance. Byron Beasley and Harry Mestayer, in roles sympathetically suited to them, give each a finished and sincere performance, and their work shows genuine intelligence and proportionate artistry. Frank Camp David M. Hartford and Grace Travers are a trio of Burbank players whose contributions to the presentation of "The Thief" are admirable examples of high-class histrionic endeavor.

GLENDALE GOLF LINKS.

We should like to call the attention of the progressive men who have the growth of our city at heart to the desirability of having some golf links in or very near to Glendale, in order to attract the leisure class of people who come to this section of the country to spend their winters and their money.

We first saw the game played in Scotland about twenty years ago, and noted the vigor of the men, well advanced in years, who were the players; now the game is common in many parts of the United States, and is rapidly increasing throughout the world, as it has been found to possess such rare health-giving qualities. Then, too, it is somewhat like tennis, because one may work strenuously at the game or do as little as he likes, playing eighteen, nine or five holes, either alone, as John Rockefeller frequently does, or with a jolly company of congenial friends.

This is a country pre-eminently suited to winter golf. Our climate is so alluring that visitors would never realize that they were going around "three miles of links," for they would never tire in this atmosphere. With the beautiful scenery to lure them on, they would be ready for the next game.

Physical culture teachers claim that "all the larger groups of muscles in the body are brought into play by the great variety of movements, striking, bending, walking, etc." And physicians who play say "it is excellent work for the lungs and heart, and there is no form of exercise more favorable for toning up the system, nerves, heart and circulation." People of sedentary habits get just the needed vigor to make them "feel like living."

There is a fine opening in Glendale for golf links, and while our own citizens would be benefited, it would present an attraction to winter visitors which they could not resist.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson of Palmer avenue entertained recently Mr. and Mrs. Will Adams of Cohoes Falls, N. Y., where for some time Mr. Adams was chief of police.

Mrs. Evalene Melrose, who for the past few months has been residing in Arizona, is now passing some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ayers of Palmer avenue.

After passing some time with her daughter, Mrs. S. Pitts, and son Charles Henry of Park avenue, Mrs. M. A. Henry has returned to her home in the northern part of the state.

B. F. Oberdick and Mr. McCulloch, who for the past year or so have been in the real estate business at the corner of Park avenue and the boulevard, have gone to Portland, Ore.

W. C. Botkin, pastor of the local Methodist church, has been conducting children's meetings in the Thirty-eighth street Methodist church of Los Angeles several afternoons this week.

Miss Mildred Brockman and William Davenport, both of this place, were married recently and are now enjoying their honeymoon. They will return to this city soon and reside here.

Mrs. Meime Agard, mother of the man who was killed in an auto accident at this place recently, will pass part of this summer with her son William T. Agard and family at Redondo Beach.

J. H, Smith, recently of San Jose, has purchased an interest in the Tropico Mercantile company. He tells us that he has had twenty-three years' experience and knows the business thoroughly.

Mrs. Kate Wilson is passing some time with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Richardson, corner Central and Cypress street. Mrs. Wilson has, for the past few weeks been visiting with relatives in the East.

The Jolly Eight Whist club of this place, of which Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Newton and Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter are members, was entertained by Mrs. Samuel Hunter, assisted by Mrs. Charles Hunter, at her home recently.

A lawn fete was held under the auspices of the Missionary societies of the Methodist church of this place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chandler on Thursday afternoon and evening. The affair proved successful and the ladies feel encouraged.

A company of about forty-five boys, who are spending the summer tramping through Southern California, stopped at Tropico last Sunday evening. They have with them an excellent brass band and Sunday evening just after the sun had gone down the band treated the Tropico residents to an open air concert.

Miss Emilie Hatch, who has been confined to her bed for the past several weeks as a result of an accident, underwent an operation in the Los Angeles hospital Tuesday. According to last reports the patient little sufferer was doing as nicely as could be expected and the residents of this place are all hoping for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. William Grove of Homestead, Pa., has arrived in this city and will enjoy a visit of three months with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles White and family of Central avenue. While here Mrs. Grove will visit many of the points of interest of Southern California, but while here will make her headquarters in this city. She is delighted with our town and slowly but surely that "California fever" is growing upon her.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Griffith of Home Court entertained at their home Sunday afternoon, the affair being a 4 o'clock Tennessee gathering. All of the guests present were from Tennessee. A grand dinner, the kind that is popular in that state was enjoyed. The guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Eckenberry, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Overhalser, Mrs. William Simpson, Mrs. Jerd Jones, Miss Nelle Fletcher, Miss Hazel Erkenberry, Miss Leola Simpson, Miss Bessie Simpson, Miss Genevieve Jones, Miss Anna Claire, Miss Helen Griffith, Samuel Boring, Charles Chamberlain, Allison Jobe, Jim Henry Erkenberry, Charles Overhalser, Major John J. Weller.

WEST GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Toll and three children of Kenneth road left Monday evening for Alaska where they expect to remain until about August 1st.

Mrs. Miner and son, Mr. Arthur Miner spent Sunday at Balboa, and both declare the place an ideal one and a delightful place in which to go rowing and bring the "roses" to your cheeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Everett left on Monday for a ten days vacation at Sespe. As this is a noted place for trout, of course all of Jim's friends will expect a good fry for breakfast on his return.

The Bennington property on Ivy street has been sold recently to Mrs. Warren, mother of Mrs. Wm. Woods of West Fourth street. Mrs. Warren will make alterations in the place and rent it for the present, later on she expects to occupy the home herself.

The Epworth League of the West Glendale M. E. church enjoyed a moonlight hay ride on Monday evening. A number of young folks were in the party and from the hearty peals of laughter heard all along the route, they surely enjoyed themselves.

Mrs. Bymhold, formerly of Michigan, but now of Portland, Ore., spent Tuesday with her friend, Mrs. Miner of Ivy street. Mrs. Bymhold is on her way home from New York where she attended the wedding of her daughter who was instructor in a leading art college of that city.

AFTERNOON TEA.

About fifteen invitations to an afternoon tea were issued on Wednesday afternoon last by Mrs. Deacon, corner Oak and Pacific streets. The affair was in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Sawyer of El Paso, Texas, and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. Great amusement was caused by the guessing game, at which Mrs. Hare won the first prize. Delicious refreshments were served.

"Mutt," "Toots," and "Ikey," three young gentlemen of tender age of West Glendale, took a day off recently and explored the Los Angeles river as far as the "bend" for fish. The water was either too deep, or something went wrong, for when they returned tired and footsore, they merely had the "tales" of the finny tribe.

AMERICAN WOMAN'S LEAGUE RECEPTION.

Mrs. R. W. Hammond entertained at her home on Ivy street on Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of all those interested in "The American Woman's League." A large number responded to the invitations and spent a most enjoyable afternoon. Mrs. Claudia Hazen White, state regent of the league, was present and greatly interested her hearers with a splendid talk on the merits of the order. Mrs. Currier of Los Angeles who is local organizer for Geindale and Tropico, was also present and made a few remarks. Mrs. Hammond, who is her assistant, had her home decorated for the occasion, and served delicious punch to all on the wide veranda which had been previously screened, and hung with beautiful ferns.

Robertson Lunch will be served out of doors under the trees and the table decorations will be of flowers and ferns. The invited guests are Mrs. Captain Creassy Mrs. George Grifith, Mrs. J. Coffe and Miss Nellie Williams of Sierra Madre

PIANO PUPILS' RECITAL.

Between three and four hundred invited guests attended the promotion exercises of the piano pupils of Miss Octavia Hudson's Graded School of Music, which was held at Blanchard Hall, Los Angeles, Saturday afternoon, July 1.

The stage, with its festoons of greenery overhead, was banked with large ferns and palms, and presented a beautiful appearance as the pupils, twenty-four in number, entered from either side of the stage to the music from Lohengrin, carrying clusters of red and white carnations.

The enthusiastic audience was very liberal in its praise of the beautiful program presented by the children and older pupils. Many of the children have just completed their first year of study, some of them being but six and seven years of age; yet they played with the understanding of real musicians.

The chorus work of the class was especially fine, and on every side were heard comments of surprise and admiration regarding this part of the program.

Lois Johnson, Mildred Stanford, Dorothy Brown, Elizabeth Sternberg, Mildred Goudge, Bertha Lloyd, Robert Hutchins, Luora Wallace, Ruth Wallace, Helen MacMullen, Marion Dinsmore, Alice and Sadilee Holman, Janet Wilson, Evangeline Hunchberger, Inez Harrison, Elanore Mellin, Carolyn Grey, Earl and Milton Brown, Wilbur Lee, Mabeth Pigg, Margaret Dick Mrs. Frances Chatem.

NOTICE INVITING PROPOSALS FOR FURNISHING PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS FOR THE ERECTON OF CITY HALL FOR THE CITY OF GLENDALE.

Pursuant to statutes and to resolutions of the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale directing this notice, the Board of Trustees of said City invites and will receive, at its office at the City Hall, up to seven-thirty o'clock p. m., of the 24th day of July, 1911, proposals for the furnishing of plans and specifications in detail for the erection of a city hall for the City of Glendale, said proposed plans and specifications to be filed with the City Clerk.

The amount authorized by said Board to be expended for the erection of said City Hall is $7,500.00. The premium to be awarded to the architect, whose plans and specifications are adopted and accepted by the Board, shall be five per cent of the cost of said building. Information concerning the kind of building, and general arrangement thereof desired, will be furnished any prospective bidder by calling on the City Clerk at the City Hall in Glendale.

The architect, whose plans and specifications are adopted, shall, before any premium shall be awarded for such plans and specifications, be required to execute a bond with two sufficient sureties thereto, as prescribed by law made and provided in such cases by Act 2896, Section No. 2 thereof, entitled "An Act to regulate the erection of public buildings and structures."

All plans submitted must be accompanied by a synopsis of the specifications, and the cost must be not more than $7,500.00. Plans calling for any greater expenditure will not be considered.

Glendale, California, July 10, 1911.
G. B. WOODBERRY,
Clerk of the City of Glendale.

NOTICE CALLING FOR BIDS.

NOTICE OF HEARING OF PETITION FOR PROBATE OF WILL

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles. No. 18,838.

Notice is hereby given that the petition of J. F. McIntyre for the probate of will of L. Headstrom, deceased, and for the issuance of letters of administration with the will annexed thereon to J. F. McIntyre will be heard at 10 o'clock a. m., on the 17th day of July, 1911, at the court room of Department 2, of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, California.

Dated June 23, 1911.
H. J. LELANDE, County Clerk.
By C. B. Glase, Deputy Clerk.
P. S. McNUTT, Attorney for Petitioner. 3w-10

This firm is erecting two seven-room houses for S. C. Pacher on the south side of Riverdale drive between Central avenue and Columbus, which will cost about $3500 each to complete. They will start within a few days three more homes for this party on the same street on three lots adjoining the foregoing sites.

Alex. Mitchell is putting up two residences on the north side of Seventh street between Central and Brand. These homes will contain seven rooms and will cost about $4000 each to build. J. E. Andrews is contractor.

MR. J. H. FLOWER ERECTS RESIDENCE.

J. H. Flower, one of Glendale's most prominent citizens, is just completing a strictly modern five-room residence at the corner of Fifth street and Central avenue. In addition to the five rooms this home has a bath room, screen porch, reception hall and dressing room. Plans were drawn by Roy L. Bancroft.

The front entrance is at the center of the building. After passing across the large porch which has cement floor, cobble stone and clinker brick rail and posts and boarded ceiling, the reception hall is entered. This is 8x10 feet and immediately behind this hall is the dressing room, size 8x8 feet.

To the left of the entrance is the living room, 12x18 feet. This room has old gold brick mantel, built-in book case, writing table and seat. The woodwork on all sides of this room extends to the ceiling, which is tinted a light buff, the woodwork being stained medium oak. This room has hardwood floor. It is 13x16 in size. This room has beamed ceilings, between the beams being tinted a light buff.

The cabinet kitchen is just off the dining room. It is 12x14 feet and is fitted with all the modern conveniences, including cupboards, drawers, ironing board closet, etc. Leading from the kitchen on the south is the spacious screen porch, 12x12 feet. This is fitted with stationary wash tub, etc. A stairway from the porch leads to the cement basement 12x12 feet.

On the north side of the building at the rear is one of the two large bedrooms, size 12x13 feet. These rooms are finished in white enamel and each has a large closet 8x8 feet. The orher bedroom is located on the north side of the house at the front. Between these bedrooms is the bathroom, size 8x10 feet. This is finished in white enamel and has built-in linen closet, medicine chest, etc.

The exterior of the residence is finished extremely rustic. The sides are of shakes, while the roof is shingled.

The home is erected at a cost of $4000.

Mr. Flower is just starting another home, which will be occupied by himself and family at the southwest corner of Fifth street and Central avenue. This home will cost about $3800 to erect and will be ready for occupancy in about two months.

We are also informed by Mr. Flower that plans are under way for a brick block 50x80 feet, which he will erect on the lot just south of his other business buildings at the corner of Fourth street and Brand boulevard. Work on this building will be started sometime in the fall.
